Domaine Leduc Frouin

The domain Leduc Frouin is managed by Nathalie and Antoine Leduc, 4th generation of winemakers on the family estate. Antoine was always destined to work on the family estate. He returned there in 1993 after doing his studies in oenology at Avize, Dijon and Bordeaux. Nathalie joined him in 2000 after 10 years in the banking sector in another viticulture region. Before them these were their parents, grandparents, great grandparents who were fighting for and developing the importance of the vineyard la Seigneurie.

The family has had the vineyard since 1873. Combining tradition and modernity, Antoine and Nathalie make every effort to offer you typical local wines, subtle and surprising. Passionate and strong in our experiments, we work rigorously with our vineyard of 30 hectares and practice manual harvests.

The diversity of our soils (falun, shale, clay) allows us to perform divided into parcels winemaking that every year reveals the character of the wines la “Seigneurie”! Wishing to preserve the heritage that has been entrusted to us, we work in the dimension of the sustainable agriculture “Terra Vitis”

Domaine Pradelle

Domaine Pradelle is a family estate since 1854 managed by the Pradelle brothers, Jacques and Jean-Louis, and Antoine Pradelle, the son of Jacques. The vineyard is 35 hectares and located all around Tain l'Hermitage on the both sides of the Rhone river. On the left-bank of the Rhône the grapes are used to make Crozes-Hermitage.

They green harvest and keep the foliage as tall as possible and remove leaves to avoid rot on the grapes. In the cellar, fermentations take place in concrete tanks surfaced with epoxy resin. Each tank has its own refresh and warm up system for better fermentations and macerations. Red wine ageing takes place in big oak barrels to keep a better expression of the terroir. Vineyard plots located on the terrace of the Rhône. These soils are skeletal with a bit of clay and lots of pebble stones.

Château Bouscaut & Château Lamothe-Bouscaut

The Bouscaut vineyards have existed since the 17th century on the commune of Cadaujac, within the Graves appellation. Called Haut Truchon, it was renamed Château Bouscaut in 1929 after the locally given name. Bouscaut was then acquired in 1979 by Lucien Lurton, a well known Bordeaux winemaker who already owned at least ten other prestigious châteaux in appellations such as Margaux (Brane-Cantenac) and Barsac (Climens).

Today the fourth generation, Sophie Lurton, Lucien's daughter, is in charge. She inherited the estate in 1992, and Laurent Cogombles, her husband, an ENITA graduate, has been very involved with Bouscaut since 1998. Apart from this activity, Laurent is also very actively involved in the wine trade bodies, like the 'interprofession' and is the president of the appellation Pessac-Léognan.

Domaine De Joy

The story began in 1927, when Paul Gessler decided to leave his native Switzerland to settle in Gascony, in the Gers region, depopulated area farmers after the first World War. At this time, the farm cultivated cereals, vines and bred cattle. Very soon, Paul understood that, the land and exposure of the slopes, were favourable to the quality production of wines and Armagnac. in viticulture. Year after year, the vineyard grew and the development of the sales of bottled wine increased.

Kamptal boasts a variety of terroir, ranging from loess over gravel to striking parcels of primary rock and even volcanic elements. A hot and dry microclimate, the soil is geologically spectacular, as it originates from 270 million year old Permian Period, being a desert-like sandstone base with volcanic particles. The region has long sloping vineyards as well as steep slopes that are terraced such as the Gaisberg single vineyard.

Protection of nature starts with the green manuring of the vineyards. The result of this sowing is a blossoming of senfdotters, phacelia, fennel, various kinds of clover and other plants. The objective is the holistic cultivation of the vineyard and of its soil, so to ensure and sustain the high quality of the grapes.

Dating back to the 13th century the Mauritushof was originally used by monks to collect the grapes. Since 1799 the building has belonged to the Gritsch family who started the tradition of wine pressing. Today this heritage stands as a commitment for the future to cultivate this tradition. Our wines are synonymous with the unique soil and microclimate of each individual vinyard. These special qualities yield great wines that are based not only on the traditional craftsmanship, but also on the unique philosophie of our family.

Weingut Schneider

Schneider Winery has put its focus on the red grape varieties of the burgundy family the international Pinot Noir and the autochthonous Saint Laurent. This specialization originates in the excellent growing conditions that mirror a close working dialogue with the continental climate, the gravelly soils, skills and passion of the individual vintners. Top ratings at renowned tastings have proven that our burgundy wines count among top qualities not in Austria alone. Tattendorf has been known as an “isle of red wine” in the Austrian wine region Thermenregion. About 80% of the production are dominated by red wine. The reason for this specialization is on the one hand the continental climate and on the other hand the type of soil in this region. Strolling through the vineyards, you’ll appreciate that the soil is dominated by gravel and chalk. This is one of the fundamentals for the evolution of our vines and has a major influence on the character of our wines.

Weingut Kirnbauer

Situated in Deutschkreutz, the most important village in Mittelburgenland. Right on the border with Hungary, this is Blaufränkischland! Protected by three ranges of hills to the west with heavy deep clay soils. The region has a 2700 year winemaking tradition. The Kirnbauer family has over 400 years of tradition in Deutschkreutz.

The Kirnbauer family approach of nature-integrated wine production is the sustainability philosophy. Organic, biodynamic etc. only describes a small piece of the whole process; plant protection. Kirnbauer is focused on the complete range of resource management - Carbon footprint, water footprint, energy saving (heating with wood from the own forest, LED-lighting, photo-voltaic for energy generation for complete air & tank conditioning, buildings isolation etc.), no herbicides, no insecticides (sexual confusion method), and no irrigation.

Vigne del Malina

The vineyards “Vigne del Malina” are cultivated where two streams, the Malina and the Ellero - certainly not by chance - drew the shape of a wine glass. An alluvial soil whose unique characteristics and particular microclimate are ideal for small quantities of superior quality grapes. The right place to produce wine, the way we like. The world of wine is made of history, tradition and culture. Each bottle is a precious message that we send to true friends all over the world.

“The land on which the vines grow is of fundamental importance to the result I want to achieve. For the older vineyards, the density is 4200 plants/hectare. The most recent ones have a density of 5800 plants/hectare. No herbicide or desiccant, only organic fertilizers: the environmental impact is minimal. We do not use improper yeasts or enzymes when wine-making: only indigenous ones. Fermentation takes place in 60 quintal wooden vats with manual plunging and without temperature control. At the end of the fermentation process, the wine is racked and aged in French oak barrels for 13 months. After this, the wine is blended and aged for another year in big wooden barrels. It is then bottled without being filtered and left in bottles for a further 6-8 months

Domus-picta may be a child of today, but its roots go way back to 1848, when Nonno Oni Spagnol discovered his passion for wine, love for Prosecco and the joy of vine growing, a passion handed-down to successive generations. They are located in the province of Treviso's hilly belt, 50 km from Venice, between the towns of Conegliano and Valdobbiadene at an equal distance from both the Dolomites and the Adriatic Sea, a perfect combination that has a positive influence on the climate.

In 2002, the son Titian Fraccaroli decided to extend the production of fine wines such as Amarone, Ripasso, Valpolicella Superiore and Recioto (receiving numerous awards and certificates of quality)

Morra

The story of the Morra family has been closely interwoven with the land for almost a century. In the 1920s, the head of the family, Stefano, added vine growing to the traditional activities of fruit cultivation (Castellinaldo was famed for its excellent peaches) and livestock farming. After the Second World War, his son Antonio stepped up grape production, and the small winery in the centre of the village began turning out demijohns of wine (Barbera, Dolcetto, Nebbiolo and an unusual dry Brachetto). In the middle of the 1980s, Antonio's son, Stefanino, began bottling some of the wine.

Achille Viglione

The ACHILLE VIGLIONE snc winery is located in SERRALUNGA D’ALBA, near Alba (Piedmont), in the heart of the Langhe hills, in an area where vines have been cultivated for thousands of years and the famous BAROLO wine is grown. The company is a family-run business, Rossana with Achille, his sons: Francesco and Monica, his brothers Elio and Carlo. Those people use still traditional methods and practices in the vineyard and the cellar.

Here everything is carried out just like it used to be: the phases of the moon are strictly followed in both rackings and bottling. The vineyards are still hoed by hand to provide the roots of the vines with plenty of natural breathing space, and allowing for just the right absorption of rainwater and penetration of the sun’s rays to cater for full, juicy ripening of the bunches in autumn.

In 1925 Manzone Giovanni purchased “Ciabot del Preve” (the Parish Priest house) and he started the winemaking in Monforte d’Alba. During the years the Manzone family purchased important vineyards on the historic hill of “CASTELLETTO” and “GRAMOLERE”, two of the best crus in Monforte d’Alba. In the last years Mauro (2005) and Mirella Manzone (2012) joined their father Giovanni in the management of the winery. Mauro and Mirella are graduated from the famed Oenology School of Alba.

We cultivate our vineyards following healthy and sustainable viticultural principles. Natural grass is left between the rows of vines, mowed and left on the ground to form humus. All the wines are unclarified and unfiltered, and added in minimal amounts of SO₂.

Valle Sabato, on the border of the province of Avellino with that of Benevento covers a territory with the typical hills with sweeping valleys and high ridges. On these ridges at a height of about 450 meters above sea level, the area is well prepared serving to accommodate the Greco vine, Aminea Gemina is imported from Thessaly before the Christian era.

The best among them rival Champagne for balance and finesse. Estate grown and bottled by Familia Sumarroca. Ya means “yes!” in Spain. In their quest to make a great cava, Familia Sumarroca blind tasted over a dozen “grower cavas;” then down in the cellar, they spent many hours tasting cuvees to create this blend. This is the most western area of the Rioja Alta region and is therefore under the influence of a continental climate, with hot summers and very cold winters.

Compared with other areas of La Rioja, Cuzcurrita’s difficult climate conditions can complicate the cultivation of the vines. However, these distinctive conditions also favour the unique typicity of its wines, ensuring a greater expression of the land where they grow.

The Lovedale Road region of the Hunter Valley is renowned for producing world class wines. In 1987 we chose our property because of its potential to continue the tradition of producing outstanding wines. After three years of soil preparation the first vines were planted in 1990. We now are starting to see the rewards of such careful planing and preparation. Semillon and Shiraz are grape varieties traditionally planted within the Hunter Valley. These varietal wines have achieved worldwide recognition for their superb qualities. The De Iuliis Semillon and Shiraz are produced using the traditional winemaking techniques, to maintain maximum varietal characteristics.

Pressing Matters

Greg Melick simultaneously wears more hats than most people manage in a lifetime. He is a top-level barrister (Senior Counsel), a Major General (the highest rank in the Australian Army Reserve) and has presided over a number of headline special commissions and enquiries into subjects as diverse as cricket match-fixing allegations against Mark Waugh and others, to the Beaconsfield mine collapse. Yet, if asked, he would probably nominate wine as his major focus in life.

Greg wasn't sure which was worse: his Mum finding out that as a young lad he'd gambled and won at Werribee race course or – that he'd subsequently spent his winnings on wine..... and so began Greg's love affair with wine. In 2002 Greg finally found the ideal site which consisted of approximately 14 hectares of grazing land on well-drained north east facing slopes, with cracking clay over a calciferous base. The site was also frost free. Planting riesling (2.9ha) at his vineyard on Middle Tea Tree Road in the Coal River Valley. It is a perfect north-facing slope, the Mosel-style Rieslings sweeping all before them.

Regarded as not just the top rated Rieslings in Tasmania but all of Australia and deserves world class recognition. The names of the wines signify the relative residual sugars.

Eldridge Estate

Eldridge Estate is a 3 hectares property on Red Hill in Mornington Peninsula. The soil is a rich terra rosa volcanic loam on a north facing slope that drops 45 metres from the top. It is protected from harsh winds by natural land forms which result in a long, cool, ripening period. The soils are volcanic loam from the Ordovician era, ie about 200 Million years before present time. This means that the combination of ancient landforms and soil have combined to produce a truly unique set of conditions that make our vineyard special. The vines have been trained into what is known as the Scott Henry system of canopy management to provide the best possible flavor development at this unique site.

Amalie Robert

Amalie Robert Estate was founded at the turn of the century by Dena Drews and Ernie Pink. Dena and Ernie left the corporate world behind and began a journey to pursue a vision. What we found was a beautiful Willamette Valley cherry orchard, and the opportunity to take a hand in our own destiny. Ernie was pretty sure he saw his vineyard beneath that old orchard and struck a deal to find out. The cherries were harvested in the summer of 1999 and the transformation to vineyard began in earnest. With the help of some new friends, it was Earth Day 2000 when the last vine was planted, and the vineyard at Amalie Robert Estate was established.

Collier Falls

Collier Falls is a family-owned vineyard and winery in Healdsburg, California’s beautiful Dry Creek Valley. We make limited quantities of hillside estate red wines from our own sustainably-farmed vineyards in Sonoma County. 20 acres in the northwest corner of Dry Creek Valley at elevations exceeding 1,000 feet. These steep vineyards of rocky, clay soil produce mountain fruit with great color, character and intensity. Exactly what winemakers love to craft distinctive, hillside estate wines. Our vineyards also sit above the fog line. So while morning fog cools the valley floor, our hillside fruit enjoys plenty of sunshine. And during the warmer parts of the day, these southeast facing vineyards get early shade, creating an ideal temperature balance for our grapes

Domaine De Joy

The story began in 1927, when Paul Gessler decided to leave his native Switzerland to settle in Gascony, in the Gers region, depopulated area farmers after the first World War. At this time, the farm cultivated cereals, vines and bred cattle. Very soon, Paul understood that, the land and exposure of the slopes, were favourable to the quality production of wines and Armagnac. The first distillation took place in 1929.

In 1946, André GESSLER, Paul's son and his wife Véronique, settled on the farm and expanded the vineyard to 20 hectares. André, a pioneer in the region, worked on the selection of grapes varieties (including Colombard and Gros Manseng) and participated in the creation of a group of vinegrowers in order to improve the wine quality.

In 1975, Roland, and in 1980, Olivier, Andre's sons, settled in the estate. They abandoned cereals crops in order to specialize in viticulture. Year after year, the vineyard grew and the development of the sales of bottled wine increased.

The 4th generation is running ... Vanessa and Kévin Gessler , Olivier's children, and Gael Gessler, Roland's son, settled on the estate in 2014 and 2015 !
