

LVLUP DOJO

DIGITAL MARKETING TOOLKIT

www.lvlupdojo.com

OVERVIEW

At the Dojo, our goal is to equip our members with the tools, resources and plans that allow you to navigate the space in a forward thinking manner. Whether it be through the courses that we produce on a monthly basis, the tutorials, or these eBooks, the Dojo want's to continue enabling you.

This eBook outlines a number of digital marketing tools, resources, softwares and useful hacks that anyone looking to grow their digital presence will find valuable. We have personally used each and everyone of these programs and fully endorse them, otherwise we wouldn't be sharing them with you. Each tool in this kit gives a breif overview of what the platforms can be used for from a 30,000 ft view (very high level).

Ultimately, what we have done here is thrown together a small, but solid 'marketing mix' of websites, extensions and softwares that you can leverage in order to fully understand what it is you are doing online, what you should be tracking to ensure sustained growth, and how to streamline and automate many of the tedious factor that come into play when LVLing up.

For more resources, eBooks, tutorials and hacks, make sure to take a look at the Dojo Repo located at meta.lvlupdojo.com

MARKETING TOOLS

Hootsuite - Social Media Management Tool

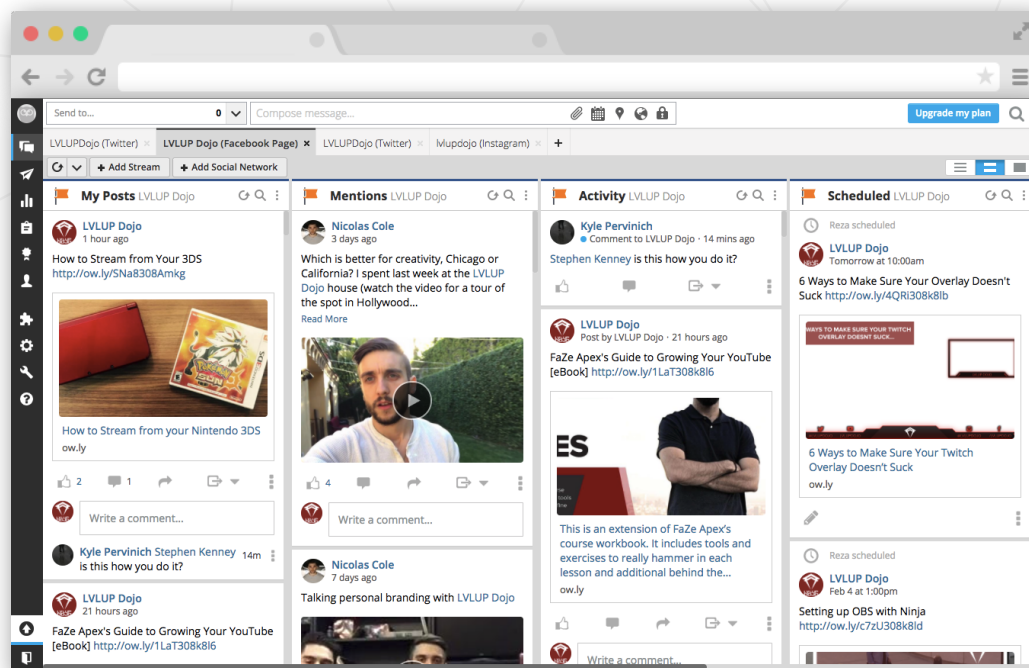

Hootsuite provides a useful dashboard for managing, scheduling, and analyzing multiple social accounts from one location. This can help you streamline your social media activity by putting together content that you want to post in coming days, weeks or months. It is very intuitive and even provides a 'suggestions' tab where you insert topics/keywords that are relevant to what you produce and it will curate posts from other websites that have relevant content. You can then make sure it is something that you would share, change the post copy and schedule a bunch of posts without worrying about missing a day of posting.

To the right is a snapshot of our Facebook dashboard and the streams connected:

- Posts
- Mentions
- Activity
- Scheduled posts

MARKETING TOOLS

Gleam - Giveaway Platform

Gleam is a giveaway management platform with both free and paid versions. When you're starting out- you're more than likely going to be fine with the free version. When you're ready to upgrade- it's $39 per month. Either way, this tool gives you huge potential to grow your social channels rapidly.

You can conduct giveaways and associate actions with each giveaway entry. You should connect all of your social accounts to the actions, prompting each entrant to: follow, subscribe, retweet and post, effectively sharing the giveaway that you are running. In doing so, this will increase your follower count, and overall reach on each social platform that you connect to the giveaway. Try running the giveaway with one or two other fellow gamers that are looking to grow their following as well and double or triple the reach and follower count that the giveaway creates.

Added bonus: For each individual that enters into the giveaway, you will receive their email address which builds an email database that can serve many purposes as explained in the MailChimp section below.

MailChimp - Email Marketing Platform

If you have something that you would like to offer to your audience, free or not, if you build a database of emails (or "leads" as we refer to them in the digital marketing world) MailChimp is a great platform that allows you to send templated out emails to everyone on your list. Some ways that you would use this platform can include:

- Letting people know when you are about to go live
- Sharing updates to your streaming schedule
- If you have a personal website and decide to start a blog, you can drive users to your website to read your article or blog post. This, in turn improves your overall presence throughout the internet. REMEMBER, the more times your name or something affiliated with you is mentioned on the internet, it contributes to your SEO rank through the association of specific keywords that are directly tied to you and your brand.

Canva - Online Graphic Design Tool

Canva is a great, free tool that allows you to make custom graphics for whatever you may need them for. It's a great alternative to photoshop and other pricey graphic design softwares and is a good starting place for new designers or people who want to make professional looking graphics. A couple reasons why we like Canva are that they provide you with templated graphics that you can manipulate to meet your vision, and let's say you want to make a new banner for your Twitter page- Canva will give you an artboard that is the exact dimensions needed for that banner, and many other post sizes.
