Audience participants will learn the three areas in life to master;
Dream, Be Alert & Learn to Fail!

Dream

"Happiness is simple. Have a dream, the intention to make it happen and a plan to get there."

-Tina Mitchell

As you take your journey through life, catch a glimpse of how dreaming can change your life path and guide your personal and professional journey. My goal is to help you see clearly how you can live your dream and visualize your way to a new reality.

Be Alert

"Wake every morning alert to all the surprises waiting just for you.

They show up everywhere when you are watching for them and what an amazing day it will be!"

-Tina Mitchell

To be alert is to not miss a moment in your life. It's about creating "positive triggers" you can reflect on when something is not going your way or you feel someone is treating you unfairly. The small things will bring you the happiness you are looking for in your life.

If you watch for the small miracles, they show up every day, all day. If you are waiting for the big ones, you may be waiting a long time. Why not focus on all the good and beauty in life? Your day will always have something to smile about if you are alert to the small things.

Learn to Fail

*“Life is balanced with no exceptions. Every failure has a gain waiting on the other side.
Make the decision to look for the gain and not focus on the loss.”*
-Tina Mitchell

Life is not just about succeeding; it's also about rejoicing in your failures. Only after accepting that failures are part of the process, will you be able to benefit from them. You may ask, “How?”.

The lessons you will learn and the knowledge you will gain from those failures will prepare you as you move forward in your life.

Failures are part of life and no one can escape them. So why not embrace them?

Your life is a journey, a journey of discovery, a discovery of who you are and what you will contribute to this world.

Tina believes each of our lives is like a road trip. When traveling, you use a map to get from one destination to another. Even with a map you can take a wrong turn, but you can adjust and take a different road if you choose. There are signs along the way with life lessons and, the road you take will determine your life direction and life experiences.

Tina is excited to take you on a journey with her.
A journey to live your dream now!

During Tina's talk, she shares her personal core practices inspired by her history of traumas, failures, and successes. From as early as age seven and well into her adult years, her choices and actions have been formed by such events as her father's attempted suicide, playing violin with her sister at Pike Place Market to keep a roof over their heads, bearing the trauma of her first husband's incarceration, and losing her daughter Amber.

In spite of these circumstances, she went on to live an extraordinary personal and professional life.

Tina will share stories that shaped her life and molded the person she is today.

Tina's stories will inspire you to embrace your own circumstances, appreciate your own failures, and build your own personal brand of success.

Tina likes to get up close and personal with her audience so she can make the biggest impact.
