BACKSTRETCH

BY DERICK GIWNER

When people show up at the track to watch and wager on the racing they likely don't spend any time wondering how the surface of the track remains in good shape regardless of the weather. In all cases that is due to the track superintendent, who is in charge of making sure the horses and drivers have a safe environment to do their work.

At Yonkers Raceway that job belongs to Ed Angell, a former military man who got into the business about 10 years ago and has turned around a track that was known for constant cancelations into one that has recently weathered multiple snow events and days of freezing-cold temperatures. The 57-year-old was kind enough to take some time out of his hectic schedule on a week filled with rain, snow and sleet to talk about his journey and track maintenance in general. I think you'll appreciate his work ethic and the knowledge he provides on his craft. Enjoy!

TRACK SUPERINTENDENT ED ANGELL

How did you get started in track maintenance?

I worked at Plainridge Racetrack in Plainville, Massachusetts. I started out driving the starting gate. One day a friend said to me 'I heard you were in the military' and I told him I used to work in submarines. He asked if I used to drive the submarines and I said, 'yes, we just went straight' [lauging]. He said that was exactly what we need, someone that can drive the car straight. I started in 2015 under Steve O'Toole, Over the years I started staying around and helped out with the track after I was done and as time went on some people who were elderly started leaving and I moved up the chain really quickly, like in a couple of years. Steve O'Toole then asked me if I wanted to be the track manager. I had been doing it for two years and had learned from Steve's 50 years of experience. He was between a rock and a hard place because people left and I ran the track for the next three years. The whole thing was simply by coincidence. A friend asked me if I could drive the gate car and the rest is history.

What type of education goes into a profession like that? Is it all on the job training?

I was green to it. I caught on really quick and just kinda understood what it took to keep a horse safe and keep the track going. I had a lot of mentors. My saying has always been that if you are going to give me 50 years of your knowledge for free, I'm going to take it. Over the years that is what has gotten me to where I am now. I've only been doing this for 10 years, being a trackman, but I've leaned on a lot of shoulders and different people.

With a track like Yonkers that races five nights a week, does it require more maintenance than one that races just twice a week?

This is the hardest racetrack in the world. We'd be out there seven days a week if we could. We only work six days a week because management doesn't want us here on Sundays unless there are special circumstances like this past weekend. It was my wife's birthday, Super Bowl Sunday and we didn't leave the track all weekend. We started eight o'clock Saturday night.

This track has a 14 degree banking. It is very hard to hold material on the track. When I got here they told me about all the cancelations they were having and I made it a point to find every quarry I could in New York to ask for material that would bind up and stick together. I went back to Plainridge to take two samples and asked the places if they had something similar. Plainridge is a lot flatter than Yonkers but I happened to find a couple of products that worked. I'm a perfectionist I won't leave the track until it is perfect. I'm here 12 to 14 hours a day from eight or nine in the morning until probably the tenth race every day. I do it for the horses because without them we don't have a job.

You touched on the track at Yonkers having a bad reputation for many years but I've heard much more praise lately. What other changes have you made since starting two years ago?

We got a new trackman named Dillon Auth. I'm not saying that the rest of the track crew isn't amazing but this young kid has done a great job. Over here I can't touch the equipment because it is all union based. This kid has been my superstar. He's just like me, a perfectionist. At five of four last night he wouldn't get off the track. I actually had to tell him to get off. I told him, 'it's good for tonight' because we were there all day on Sunday. Other than me coming in with different ideas, I believe he is the reason this track turned around. To have the track right you have to be out there all day.

Another person I'd like to mention is Gary Wolffe. He is the one that told me I should take the job at Yonkers. At the time I lived five minutes away from the track at Plainridge and I was like 'what are you talking about?' He inspected my track many times at Plainridge and was filling in as a consultant at Yonkers. He told Alex Dadoyan that he had someone that could get the track back racing every night. Alex gave me a call, I showed up that next Monday and I never left. That was October of 2022.

So you can't operate any of the equipment?

I can't touch anything. I can't even pick up a pylon. So that's the toughest part of my job because the track superintendent wants to touch it, feel it, smell it; that's what we do. I have to dictate what I want done to someone else and that is very hard to do. Most people can't catch on to that, which is why I credit Dillon. This kid said 'you have the knowledge and I know how to operate the machinery. You tell me what to do.' So far I think we've only had one cancelation due to Mother Nature. I really couldn't do this job without the crew. I have the wand but they make it happen.

Recently you've been dealing with a lot of bad weather – snow, rain, sleet. Has it been difficult to keep the track in top shape?

Yes, very difficult. We go through a lot of material and a lot of man hours. To get the track ready after snow it is imperative that you get it off the track as soon as you can. I believe in letting the snow fall and taking it off all in one shot. Other people believe in chasing the storm [clearing it as it falls]. I have four or five operators that work with me and they know how to operate every piece of equipment. Without them we would not be able to run the track.

COLIRTESY En ANGELL

Ed Angell has only been involved in harness racing for 10 years but has secured himself a great position at Yonkers Raceway and has overseen a big turnaround in the quality of the track surface.

Are the hours much longer in the winter than the summer?

Yes. The first week we were here, we opened on January 20, that week the temperatures didn't get above 20 degrees all week. The track was frozen solid. I got here Saturday at four in the afternoon and we stayed on the track until seven o'clock Monday night. We had over 48 hours of overtime that weekend to make sure we didn't fail on opening night. If you let a track freeze you'll never get it back. You have to freeze dry the track, unfreeze dry the track. It takes several hours.

Do you have any other connections to the sport outside of your iob? Family?

The reason why I even got into it was because I love the horses. I used to go to Narraganset Racetrack with my father. I still have memories when I was 11 years old of watching the horses run with him.

My two brothers were involved. They used to work at Narraganset Racetrack. Secretariat ran there. My brother Jack was a bug rider and my brother Jeff was a groom. They both lived at the track in a tack room and I remember going to visit them with my dad. For many years we would go to Rockingham, Foxboro and all over.

Have you ever owned a horse?

No because I've always worked for organizations where if you are the trackman you can't own a horse.

Sometimes it seems like a superintendent can make the track more speed favoring or tiring at will. Is it really that easy?

Yes. You can tighten up a track as fast as you can loosen up a track, but I put the same track out there every day. Sometimes people will come up to me and tell me that their horses have bad feet and ask me to soften that track. I tell them that I can't adjust the track for your horse because that is fixing horse races and I'll lose my job. I try to keep the same track every day with an inch of cushion out there. But back to your question, all it takes is a shot of water and two screens and it can be like concrete. We are working with stone dust and it is a form of concrete. If you opened up a bag of Quikrete it is almost exactly what we are using on the track. When you add water it hardens up.

You say that you try to keep the track the same all the time but what about on a big card or for a race like the MGM Yonkers International Trot?

I never try to fix the track unless there is a reason brought about by Mother Nature. I watch the weather two or three days out. You cannot be a trackman without watching the weather. I don't leave this track if there is bad weather. I sleep here in a chair, sometimes overnight. They think I'm crazy but I have a love for the game. I believe you have to be here for the track to be correct.

I saw you are newly married in the last few years. If you are sleeping at the track, how does your wife take it?

My wife [Kimberly] says, 'Ed, it has always been your dream to be a track superintendent and now you have that job at one of the biggest tracks in the world. You do what you do.' She stands by me every minute. Without her there would be no me. She sends food up for the guys every week. I go home on the weekends. I have an apartment in Riverdale that I stay in Monday through Friday and I go home to Providence, Rhode Island on the weekends, weather permitting.

What is your favorite thing to do outside of work?

I'm a high school referee. I referee baseball, basketball and football. I'll usually referee two or three games on Saturday and again on Sunday. I try to keep busy.

Engblom stable ready to roll on opening day at Pocono Downs

By Jay Bergman

The 2025 racing season will get underway on Saturday afternoon at The Downs at Pocono with 15 races on a card that commences at 1:00 p.m. (EST) and features the popular Game of Claims series. The Game of Claims offers seven $17,000 divisions for horses with a price tag of $25,000.

One of last year's top trainers, Per Engblom returns to Pocono ready for action with two entered in the Game of Claims and three other talented horses from his large New Jersey-based collection.

Speedy Dominic A has won two of his four starts since arriving from Ohio last December in the Engblom stable and hopes to get back on winning form in the first Game of Claims division and first race on the Pocono card.

"When he's good he's been very good," said Engblom of the 11-yearold Australian-born son of American Ideal. "Last time out he wasn't good, but I expect him to bounce back."

Speedy Dominic A drew post seven on the outside of the first race field and will be dropping in class, having competed with $30,000 claimers in his prior two starts at Yonkers. He's only raced once on a five-eighths mile track for Engblom but had little chance in a race against conditioned company at Harrah's Philadelphia on the last day of 2024.

Engblom sends out Madelines Blk Jack (post 1) in the second race and second Game of Claims division. "Jeff (Fought) and Brian (Carsey) sent him my way from Ohio," Engblom said. "They've sent some nice horses before. He's trained well and I expect him to race well."

Madelines Blk Jack has drawn outside in three of his last four starts and should be closer to the action in his debut for Engblom.

Engblom welcomed the opening of Pocono as it finally allowed him some flexibility in getting horses from his large stable raced and placing them in classes where they fit. King Alphonso (post 3) is an 8-year-old on the comeback trail that Engblom believes fit the class structure better at Pocono than the Meadowlands this week. King Alphonso will be looking for his second straight win having won at the non-winners of $7.500 level at The Meadowlands on February 1. Saturday's third contest is a non-winners of $9,500, a comfortable fit for the veteran son of Muscle Hill. The field does have some classy types with Dejerate Hanover (post 6), a 10-time winner in 2024, in search of his first victory of the year for the sport's top conditioner Ron Burke.

Saturday's featured race at Pocono will be the tenth race with a $25,000 purse for pacers that are winners over $25,000 lifetime. The top class brings a solid collection of eight horses and Engblom is delighted to have All Class back to the races after being sidelined since last July.

"He had an issue with a tendon, so we gave him time to recover," said Engblom of All Class' time away from competitive racing. "He qualified back strongly and I'm expecting some big things from him this year."

behind Huntinthelastdolar in the 1:50 mile. Now a 5-year-old, All Class makes his season's debut four weeks after a solid secondplace finish in a Meadowlands qualifier to Spring Inhis Step A, a horse he will meet again on Saturday. horses haven't been filling over there," said Engblom of his decision to enter All Class at Pocono. The five-eighths mile track shouldn't be an issue for the son of Heston Blue Chip since he raced quite often over the Pocono strip as a sophomore in 2023 competing in the Weiss Series.

All Class will face a solid group, with Spring Inhis Step A (post 3) and Sport Secret (post 5) a pair from the powerful Jeff Cullipher stable entering the race in razor-sharp condition.

Primary Colors wraps up the afternoon program for Engblom-based pacers in the 14th race non-winners of $17,500 with a purse of $16,500.

"He's another one that I've had difficulty getting in at the Meadowlands," said Engblom. "He prefers the mile track."

Primary Colors has won two of his first three starts of 2025 at The Meadowlands and not only moves up in class but also lands post seven in the field. He will be driven by Tyler Buter and is the only one of Engblom's horses on the afternoon without the services of Jason Bartlett.

Primary Colors will start directly outside of last year's surprise winner in the Sam McKee Memorial Rocknroll Runa A. Trainer Larry Stalbaum gave the 8-year-old minimal time off with both Yonkers and Saratoga shuttered but got his stable's star back into action on Monday (February 10) with a solid third-place finish. Adding depth to this field is the $1.7 million winner Backstreet Shadow (post 4) for trainer Travis Alexander.

Strength in numbers: Boni's Northwood Bloodstock joins with Diamond Creek to form Alliance Bloodstock

JAYWALKING

By Jay Bergman X Bergmanlay

For longtime bloodstock agent Bob Boni the recent announcement of a merger between his Northwood Bloodstock company and Diamond Creek's sales force was a long time in the making.

"I've been talking with Adam (Bowden) over the years about something like this," Boni said. "The time was right."

Alliance Bloodstock was announced in January, with Boni and Diamond Creek's Shaun Laungani heading the company. Boni brings years of wisdom to the energetic and efficient team at Diamond Creek. The move suggests that unlike some mergers where businesses contract, the Alliance Bloodstock venture should help the collective expand at many ventures going forward.

"We started selling for outside clients four years ago," said Laungani. "Bob's sold thousands of horses and has built relationships."

Diamond Creek and Northwood have been major agencies at the two primary U.S. Standardbred yearling sales annually and that is not likely to change, though the numbers could escalate.

"I expect that we'll also be selling more horses at the Ohio and Indiana sales," said Boni. "This represents a great opportunity for smaller breeders to sell with us."

Boni has done business with Diamond Creek over the years, offering his expertise in evaluations that help assist in insuring many horses. Boni learned the breeding business from the ground up with a career that began at Pine Hollow Stud Farms in New York and would later grow out in a partnership with Lou Guida that landed him front and center in the rollout to champion Niatross' first crop. Boni was part of a team that looked at every yearling from that first crop and tried to purchase the best-looking and hopefully best-qualified to race as 2-year-olds in 1984. From that select group emerged world champion Nihilator, the premier 2- and 3-year-old from Niatross' first crop. Nihilator won 35 of his 38 races in his career with $3.2 million banked, giving Guida the champion he was looking for and Boni much of the credit for his keen eye in assessing pedigree and conformation.

"It's ironic," said Boni of his first encounter with Diamond Creek's Adam Bowden. "I remember he purchased Western Montana at the Harrisburg Sale (2005)."

Boni didn't know Bowden at the time but the acquisition of a pacing filly with close blood lines to Nihilator was intriguing. Now, nearly 20 years later, it is Bowden's Diamond Creek that has been transformed by that singular purchase as well. Western Montana was not only a stakes-winning filly but has emerged as Diamond Creek's foundation mare over the course of an incredible run in the breeding shed. Most recently her daughter Geothermal produced the 2023 Horse of the Year Confederate, who in turn became the first homebred stallion to stand at Diamond Creek, with his first foals sprinkling in over the last week.

Boni's Northwood Bloodstock has many ties already with smaller breeding farms and that business will be incorporated into the Alliance sales catalog. What Diamond Creek's connection will get from Boni is the wisdom to dealing with varying types of customers and improving the entire package for both buyer and seller.

"The Diamond Creek team does a great job already," said Boni. "Hopefully I can help them achieve even greater success moving forward."

With his vast experience Boni understands that the yearling sale climate is rife with uncertainty, with many of today's breeding farms also active in the racing business as well. Diamond Creek has done a great job mixing the two over the last few years, selling and owning champions on the track. The difficulty at times is in perception with potential buyers concerned that the cream of any farms crop may already have been taken off the table before they reach the sales.

"I think you have to market where people understand the circumstances going in," said Boni, recognizing that hwo obstock transparency is a must in today's auction business.

Many major farms have retained horses over the years and there has been no study to suggest a higher success rate than with horses sold at public auction. No matter the pedigree or physical prowess exhibited, horses become champions on the racetrack.

Boni also expects that Alliance will be able to garner a greater number of horses to sell in mixed sales, with owners and breeders needing to cull and restock on a regular basis to fine-tune operations.

"With us (Diamond Creek), we're looking to get greater support for our stallions," said Laungani. "We're trying to help people out that help support our stallions. Maybe they need to sell, and we can help them on that side.

"With Bob we now have a capacity to do more."

What's paramount to any sales success is the level of trust buyers have in the product being sold. Perhaps that's the key element in the Alliance merger since Boni's reputation among buyers and sellers has been forged on years of experience and wisdom shared that has helped buyers purchase with confidence and sellers enjoy realistic returns on their offerings. Boni brings a wealth of experience at yearling sales and that is vital when you consider the number of horses trainers and owners need to examine before any horse heads to the auction ring. Over the years Boni has shown the keen ability to understand the type of horses certain buyers are looking for and steer them in the right direction. This has helped buyers manage time constraints and improve the overall experience

Horse sales in general are not among the easiest places to find all people smiling when the hammer comes down. For those who market to the sellers, the most important factor is to do the best possible job and getting the horses exposed in a positive way prior to auction. With Boni joining Diamond Creek's team, the overall benefit will be that sellers will see their horses receive a higher level of attention and hopefully have that translate to more bidders and higher prices.

"A lot has do with building traffic," said Laungani. "We'll have something for everybody."

Over the last 20 years Diamond Creek Farms' growth and success appears to be part of a solid business plan. With the merger with Bob Boni's Northwood Bloodstock and emergence of the collective Alliance Bloodstock, the next step is in place to build a force in the bloodstock agency business with the depth to handle an increasing number of breeders' needs going forward.

CONFESSIONS

By Keith Gisser

As handicappers we spend hours poring over numbers – speed ratings, last quarter times, money earned, lengths back and so on. Many of us spend additional time watching race replays, checking every driver move, whether a horse was bad-gaited, locked in or stuck behind dead cover. One place where I think we should spend more time as handicappers is with the condition sheet.

The condition sheet is typically issued weekly and lists what races the race secretary hopes to fill on each card. He or she needs to have a knowledge of the horses available (in the old days we would say horses that were on the grounds, but with most track no longer offering stabling that's not the case). They need to know that at certain times of year, certain classes may not be available to fill and they have to work around that.

As one example, here in Ohio, neither Northfield Park nor Miami Valley currently offers a straight non-winners of one pari-mutuel race lifetime. That's because the good young horses have not started their seasons yet, and the ones that remain are perhaps not as talented. So, a conditioned claimer is written, usually with an inflated claiming price but a lower purse. Even there, horsemen need to read the condition sheet carefully. And so do we as handicappers.

Currently, Northfield offers a non-winners of one race claimer with a claiming price of $10,000 and a purse of $5,000; a non-winners of one with non-winners of two also eligible (the claiming tag is $15,000 and the purse is $8,200); and a non-winners of two with a claiming price of $22,500 and a purse of $9,600. These races also have an escalating (or purses won lifetime) condition – $10,000, $20,000 and $30,000. These conditioned claimers get the standard claiming allowance (20% for fillies, 25% for 4-year-olds and 50% for 3-year-olds).

When we realize all these races are available, we can use the information as a handicapping tool. If we see a horse who fits the cheaper condition racing in the middle or higher, we need to analyze why. Is he being protected for the claiming tag or do his connections really think he can compete? Young horses can improve dramatically in a short period of time, so by doing some digging, we can often either find a value or find a horse to pitch off our tickets.

The better example of the value of reading a condition sheet comes because race secretaries want full fields, so they often combine conditions. Here is one from a current Northfield condition sheet:

Pace - NON WINNERS $6,500 IN LAST 4 STARTS. AE: N/W $1500 PER START IN 2024-`25 OR 2025. AE: N/W 6 PARI-MUTUEL RACES OR $40,000 LIFETIME. AE: N/W 10 PM RACES OR $50,000 LIFETIME CLAIMING PRICE $40,000 (W/A). AE: CLAIMING $22,500 (WITH ALLOWANCES)

There are FIVE conditions written into this single race. We are not told by the program which condition each horse fits (except for the claimers), but we can figure it out. For me, right off the bat I would tend to eliminate non-winners of six and the non-winners of 10 conditioned claimer, as these are generally younger horses. However, you might get a Sires Stakes champ making a second or third start back who fits. I would give an edge to non-winners of $6,500 last four (although I really miss the days when conditions were for last five starts as it provided a more honest picture of the horse's current form) over non-winners of $1,500 a start in 2024-25 or 2025 since their current form is better than the long-term form of those horses. The $22,500 claimer is a tough one. As with any claiming race, there may be a couple "pets" who are overpriced and a couple bearcats that are being "jammed down their throats." I prefer a straight claiming race, but if the track does not have a full field of $22,500 claimers, we are stuck with this hodgepodge. In time, a regular handicapper of a particular track gets a good feel for which of the conditions tend to perform best.

However, for me, the biggest handicapping benefit of reading a condition sheet comes from knowing the regular class and knowing when it has been "opened up" to allow in a horse who would not otherwise be eligible. If we don't know the regular conditions we may not be aware when this happens. But if the track normally writes non-winners of $6,500 last four and changes it to non-winners of $6,600 last four, finding the horse that becomes eligible as a result can be a huge advantage. Similarly, if now winners of $1,500 per start becomes non winners of $1,520 a start, find the NW$1,520. That horse is likely to be competitive at the least and dominant at best.

The final reason to read a condition sheet is what I call "the small print." It's the stuff on the bottom of the sheet that applies generally. Here are a few from Northfield:

HORSES MAKING LARGE CLASS DROPS WILL DO SO AT THE DISCRETION OF THE DIRECTOR OF RACING.

So we see the double class drop which is rarely allowed. The race secretary is looking to fill a field. He is not handicapping the race. While this horse may be overbet, he is still probably a real contender.

HORSES THAT WIN A CLASS THAT THEY FIT ONLY BY N/W $$$ PER START MUST MOVE UP ONE CLASS OR CARRY A CLAIMING TAG IN NEXT START.

This explains what may appear to be an unusual or otherwise unnecessary move up in class, and for me, means the horse should still be considered.

These are just a few examples of how being familiar with the condition sheet can help your handicapping. It may not be the biggest factor, but it has always been a factor for me. Now go cash. Hopefully on a non-winner of $6.510 in his last four starts.

Walkin On Sunshine has connections feeling good at Yonkers

By Ken Weingartner

Maynard Miller planned on giving Indiana-bred female pacer Walkin On Sunshine a chance to compete out east on the Grand Circuit, but first he wanted to provide her the opportunity to mature and ease into the transition from racing against fillies at age 3 to mares at age 4.

After watching Walkin On Sunshine close out her 4-year-old campaign in 2024 by winning seven of her last 10 races — including the Indiana Sire Stakes championship for pacing mares — and open this season with a victory in the Fillies & Mares Invitational at MGM Yonkers Raceway, even Hannibal Smith would likely be pleased with the way the plan appears to have come together.

Walkin On Sunshine, who is being pointed toward the Blue Chip Matchmaker Series at Yonkers, returns to the F&M Invitational on Friday (Feb. 14) at The Hilltop, where she was assigned post seven in a field of seven and is the 7-5 morning-line favorite. Jason Bartlett will handle the driving for trainer Brett Pelling.

"I wanted to give her the 4-year-old season, because I know it's tough, the transition from 3 to 4 to go with the big dogs," said Miller, who owns Walkin On Sunshine with Daniel Lehman and Michael Yoder. "That was kind of the plan, to give her that year to grow up, then send her out east and stake her to some stuff and have her go with some of the big girls. She filled out more and seems a lot stronger.

"Her first going, we're getting her ready for the Blue Chip Matchmaker (which begins March 28). Then there will be a few other stakes, and whether she's good enough to go or not, she is going to have to tell us that. But I think the half-mile Yonkers track will suit her really good because she's a little smaller horse and she can scoot around a half pretty good. We'll see"

Walkin On Sunshine is a daughter of Always A Virgin-Hatsoff Hanover from the family of Hall of Fame broodmare Hattie. She was Hatsoff Hanover's 15th foal and is a three-quarter sister to two-time New York Sire Stakes champ and 2017 Little Brown Jug runner-up Funknwaffles. The family also includes Meadowlands Pace winners Holborn Hanover and Beach Glass.

Miller and his partners acquired Walkin On Sunshine from breeder Victory Hill Farm following the filly's 2-year-old season, which saw her win two of eight races, finish third three times, and earn $15,450.

Walkin On Sunshine, trained throughout her days in Indiana by Jay Cross, came back at 3 to hit the board in 14 of 20 starts, winning five and earning $147,650. She finished third in the Indiana Sire Stakes championship.

"I bought her after her 2-year-old season, as a racehorse is what I had in mind," Miller said. "She ended up just being better than that. After her first couple races, I thought she was more than just a regular racehorse. She just continued to get a little bit better, and a little bit better. Ricky Macomber drove her one time (in mid-July) and just kind of went down the pike with her and took a mark of (1):49 4/5. That's when we knew she was a sire stakes filly.

"It's always special when they exceed what you expected."

Last year, Walkin On Sunshine again hit the board in 14 of 20 races, this time winning eight and earning $147,714. She got a taste of the Grand Circuit when she competed in the Dayton Distaff Derby, where she finished fourth behind Twin B Joe Fresh, Sylvia Hanover and Always B Naughty. It was one of only two finishes worse than second in her last 10 races of the season.

"I give Jay the credit for getting her to where she's at," Miller said. "I think he brought her along just the way you should.

"She was sharp (to end last year). He had her sharp when we needed her. That's a credit to him."

As for Walkin On Sunshine's best qualities, Miller said, "She's so versatile and she's so easy on herself. She will only do what you ask her to do. If you want to leave with her, she'll leave, and she hasn't gotten hot. Even in the barn, she's just a good horse to be around. Normally, you find those good ones are (difficult) to be around. But she's not."

Walkin On Sunshine prepped for her 2025 debut with a 1:52.4 win in a qualifier at The Meadowlands on Jan. 18, covering her last quartermile in :26. She captured her race at Yonkers by 1-3/4 lengths in 1:54 1/5 from post six. The only downside was Miller was on a cruise and unable to watch the race live. It didn't take long for him to know the outcome, though, as his phone began receiving congratulatory text messages.

"I asked if she won and they said she jiggy jogged," Miller said. "That was kind of awesome."

Racing begins at 6:45 p.m. (EST) at Yonkers.

Ticket deadline approaching for Dan Patch Awards banquet

The U.S. Harness Writers Association's annual Dan Patch Awards banquet, sponsored by Caesars Entertainment, is set for Sunday night, Feb. 23, at Rosen Centre in Orlando, Fla.

If you plan on attending and haven't yet ordered your dinner tickets, the deadline to do so is Monday, Feb. 17.

Tickets for the Dan Patch Awards banquet are $200, with a filet mignon dinner featured. There is also a reduced-priced menu option for children 12 and under. Tickets can be ordered by contacting Judy Davis-Wilson at zoe8874@aol.com or 302.359.3630 or Liz Lewis-House at Elizabeth.lewis-house@winbakfarm.com.

A limited number of rooms at Rosen Centre at the USHWA block rate of $209 per night (plus applicable taxes) are still available but reservations must be made by calling the hotel directly at 800.204.7234 and asking for the Dan Patch Awards/USHWA rate.

Also, all attendees are invited to the Saturday night, Feb. 22, pool-side Diamond Creek Farm Welcome Cocktail Reception, which will also feature a country concert by rising star Mitch Rossell, presented by Dublin Valley Farms and North American Sales Company. The two-hour reception gets underway at 5:30 p.m., with the concert starting at 6:30 p.m.

Rossell, an award-winning songwriter who has toured as an opening act with Garth Brooks and had success on the TV show

America's Got Talent, will perform during the second half of the two-hour welcome reception that gets underway at 5:30 p.m.

"We are so excited to include Mitch Rossell at Rosen Centre for our weekend gathering," said USHWA President Michael Carter. "In addition to his own songs, Mitch has written hits such as 'Ask Me How I Know' and 'Dive Bar' for Garth Brooks, and he was terrific when I saw him a couple years ago as an opener at a Garth Brooks concert."

In addition, any horsepersons at the nearby training centers are welcome to attend the Saturday welcome reception, which will offer appetizers and open bar, in addition to Rossell's performance

The Dan Patch Awards banquet annually honors the best and brightest performers, both human and equine, of the previous season. The award winners are selected by USHWA, with all winners announced in advance except for Pacer of the Year, Trotter of the Year, and Horse of the Year, which will be revealed the night of the banquet. USHWA will hold its annual director's meeting on Saturday and its general membership meeting the morning of the banquet.

Safety first at The Meadowlands

With a forecast that called for a snowfall of four inches or more, accompanied by ice expected to make for treacherous driving, Meadowlands management made the decision to cancel racing last Saturday (Feb. 8) at approximately 9 a.m.

With a solid betting card that no doubt would have produced big business, it was a tough call to make.

Cynical fans might have questioned the decision, since there wasn't a single flake of snow until approximately an hour (7:30 p.m. or so) after the 14-race program would have started, about 10 hours after the cancellation was announced. But then the weather forecasters picked their own winner, as snow and ice blanketed not only the Bergen County area, but points north and south as well.

The cancellation was all about safety.

"It's true that getting to the track would have been no problem for our customers and horsemen," said track Chief Operating Officer and General Manager Jason Settlemoir. "But we were concerned about what might have happened at the end of the night.

"Out of concern for our equine athletes and the people who are responsible to get them to the track and ready to race, we concluded it was best to cancel. We knew leaving the track after the races were over would not be safe, and the weather forecasters were correct, enabling us to make the right call. We did not want big horse trailers traveling over snow- and ice-covered highways. There's always a chance a storm will blow in one direction or another, but risking the safety of our horsemen is not one we are willing to take."

For locals who could take a look at the roads before making a decision, the track and its off-track betting facility, Winners Bayonne, stayed open for simulcasting.

In the event there is bad weather on a live race night, always check The Big M's website, playmeadowlands.com, for updates.

A TROTTING HAT TRICK? Antognoni S has been hot stuff since his arrival from Sweden in mid-January, and the Ron Burke trainee, who has won both of his parimutuel starts in the U.S., will leave from post eight in the Saturday (Feb. 15) night feature, a $22,000 high-end conditioned event for trotters.

Dave Miller will drive the 5-year-old gelded son of Father Patrick-Bouncing Bax, who is the 9-5 morning-line favorite. Antognoni S has been nothing short of dominant in his two American betting outings, winning by 4 lengths as the 1-5 favorite in 1:52 4/5 on Jan. 25 before a  $5\frac{1}{4}$ -length romp in 1:53 2/5 as the 1-9 public choice on Feb. 1.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 13

RACE 10

(5) BRING YOUR FIRE was aggressively handled in his latest when he floated out for an early position but stayed in and took a shuffle. He showed live legs late in the mile and is one I'm willing to go back to this evening; best bet.

-John Rallis

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 14

RACE 11

(7) SALEM SEELSTER saved all the ground and was a very willing third when clear last week behind a couple of horses that would be clear favorites in this spot. Four-year-old makes his third start back from a six week layoff and seemed primed for a big mile.

RACE 4

(5) GOLDEN QUEST N has made a ton of money here over the years and drops to a winning level off a good tightening effort; one to beat on class alone.

-Matt Rose

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 15

RACE 9

(2) LYONS STEEL dropped to this level last time, got shut off after a pocket trip and cleared too late. He faces a softer group tonight and can take charge.

HARRIS THRILLED TO BE PART OF 'ABUCKABETT'S' CHAMPIONSHIP SEASON

Andrew Harris figures he is likely to get emotional when the time arrives later this month for Abuckabett Hanover to be formally honored as harness racing's best older male pacer.

Purchased in October 2022 by Bill Pollock, Bruce Areman, and Harris, Abuckabett Hanover (aka Bucky) hit the board in 12 of 15 races, winning seven and earning a division-best $833,022 in 2024 as a 6-year-old. The stallion finished worse than second only twice in his final 12 starts and counted the William R. Haughton Memorial, FanDuel Open Pace Championship, Dayton Derby, and Dave Brower Memorial among his triumphs.
