THE SCIENCE

Pulp is made by combining water and recycled paper, most often card offcuts, recycled newspaper or a combination of both and then moulding it using wet pressing technology. The moulded pulp is then heated to give it strength and rigidity.

Pulp gives new life to surplus waste paper, reducing the need for virgin paper. Even more excitingly, our manufacturing partners operate a closed loop system that utilises all their own packaging waste in the production of the pulp.

WBC's Pulpsafe is recyclable, compostable and biodegradable, and unlike many products claiming these benefits, Pulpsafe is accepted for recycling by all local councils without the need for specialist treatment.

If that wasn't great news already, it biodegrades in just 6 months or less in any household compost heap rather than a lot of "biodegradable" products that only biodegrade in carefully controlled industrial composting systems.

That's 449.5 years quicker than some of its plastic counterparts!

BRINGING THE DRINKS MARKET A SUSTAINABLE SOLUTION FOR SHIPPING 1-12 BOTTLES THAT DOESN'T COMPROMISE ON PROTECTION.

Pulpsafe offers high levels of protection for shipping your bottles with the greenest possible eco-credentials. With options from 1 to 12 bottles and 1 to 3 Magnums, there's a size to fit all your needs.

A great alternative to our Polysafe and Safe Air ranges, not only is it just as easy to use, but its flexible nature allows for some variations in bottle shapes and sizes, that more rigid materials would not accommodate.

Even better news, Pulpsafe is made in the UK and available for delivery next day from just a few of each size right up to bulk deliveries on pallets.
