☁ Cloud Altimeter

By collecting answers to a few questions about a company and its cloud practice, Cloud Altimeter will generate a comprehensive report on how the company performs relative to established benchmarks and compared to others in the same class. All collected information is confidential. The tool can evaluate a company's cloud practice as often as one likes.

The Results

The report, based on information provided by the user, shows where a company stands relative to other cloud resellers and providers, regionally and nationally, in terms of cloud sales, profitability, customer engagement, and value.

Users will gain decision-making insights to improve market value and performance in the burgeoning cloud computing market segment.
