

Mobile App Developer for Flutter (m/f/d)

full-time / remote work possible

Fanbase GmbH was founded in November 2020 in Munich, Germany and is an ambitious and well-funded tech start-up focusing on the creator economy. Fanbase is a social marketplace for digital content that allows creators to build a vibrant, sustainable community. Our experienced team of developers works closely together with Fanbase's founders and is currently looking for highly motivated team members.

Responsibilities:

As a member of our tech team, you will develop our Fanbase app using Flutter while improving our software architecture and code quality on a daily basis. In order to achieve a reliable, continuous delivery process, you will also help us with unit and integration tests.

Qualifications:

- Great passion for Flutter and Dart
- Experience with Android and iOS development
- Interact with your team: feel free to ask your team for help instead of reinventing the wheel
- Very good communication skills
- You are fluent in English; German skills are beneficial but no necessity

Benefits:

- An exciting job in a start-up with great opportunities for success
- A good potential to grow both professionally and personally
- A fair compensation with flexible working hours
- The chance to shape the future of Fanbase
- Low hierarchies and direct interaction with the founders

Next:

If you are interested in this exciting position, please send your application (incl. CV and your earliest date of availability) via email to career@fanbase.com. We are looking forward to hearing from you!