EFFECTIVE BOARD MEMBER

The award winning Effective Board Member (EBM) Programmes are a series of accredited training programmes designed to equip individuals who want to become more effective in the boardroom with the knowledge and tools to enhance and embed their skills. The Programmes are aimed at both non-executive directors and executive directors from all sectors and those just entering the world of governance.

Delivered using practical and theoretical techniques including The Board Game – a unique, interactive, educational tool and face-to-face interviews with leading and experienced experts, the EBM Programmes provide participants with the skills required to gain board appointments, progress to paid positions or become more effective in their current board role. We are: “Changing the world one board member at a time...”

PROGRAMME INFORMATION

Regardless of your background and experience in corporate governance, the EBM programmes will cater to your requirements. Lead The Board follows the Advanced Certificate Course which targets individuals who have the vision to contribute to a more balanced demographic of board composition across the private, public and voluntary sectors. The public and voluntary sectors do much better on diversity than the private sector in a number of areas. However, they do have some way to go and board appointments in this sector can be the stepping-stone for entry to the FTSE Boards.

The concept of women working at executive levels, particularly those on boards has been highlighted as an area to be addressed by academics, the media and regulators in order to enhance the performance of 'UK PLC'. The widely quoted Hampton Alexander and Parker reviews set targets for women and ethnicity on the Boards of FTSE companies and whether quotas are agreed with or not, the composition of boards needs to change. The business case for diversity is well reasoned and the inclusion of diversity on boards is not a nice thing to do but a smart thing to do. Diverse boards are better overseers of corporate activities and are less likely to share common assumptions.

Participants of this Programme will be supported by experienced mentors who have served on boards of all sizes, complexities and across all three sectors.

There are several other benefits to the programmes including enhancing skills in networking, presentation skills and reviewing CV's.

WHO IS ELIGIBLE?

- You are already a board member but want to refresh your knowledge and skills;
- You are a leader who wants to learn about the latest best practice in corporate governance;
- You support the board as a company secretary, governance officer or administrator;
- You are a director or senior executive aiming to take on your first board appointment;
- You are already a board member but want to gain an appointment in a larger, or more complex organisation;
- You would like to secure appointment as chair;
- You are already a board member but want to gain your first paid appointment.
- You have no governance experience and want to learn about the subject and gain your first board appointment.

I have gained incredible experience and want to thank Karl, you and all at the Governance Forum for being a big part of this amazing

the BOARD GOVERNANCE game

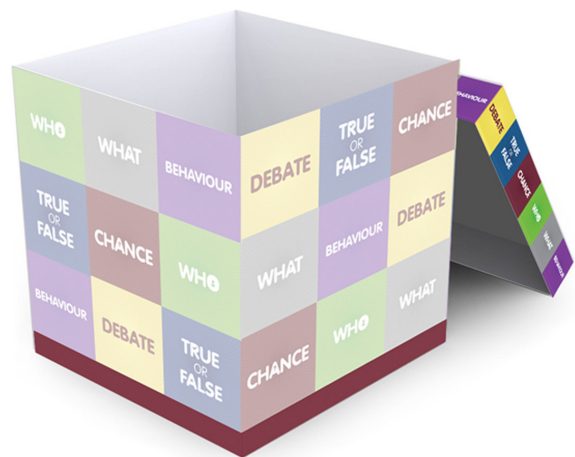

The Board Game is an interactive team based educational tool delivered in a fun and stimulating classic board game style. It promotes accelerated learning techniques and practical case studies to consolidate governance knowledge.

An innovative and inclusive way for your entire board to perfect their governance knowledge. As a learning technique, it's revolutionary!

“Governance is a very important topic but can at times become a dry, academic and difficult subject to get to grips with. EBM uses a board game that refreshingly brings governance to life, is challenging but fun and you sit back at the end of it and think wow I learnt a lot from that and more importantly remembered the key points.”

FORMER MANAGING DIRECTOR OF JAGUAR UK

THE GOVERNANCE CERTIFICATE AND ADVANCED CERTIFICATE COURSE

Accredited by the Association of Corporate Governance Practitioners

INTRODUCTION

Good corporate governance is a pre-requisite for the successful operation of every organisation, whether in the private, public or third sector. It is the responsibility at all levels of the organisation to understand what good governance is. This responsibility falls to the chair of the board, non-executive and executive directors, the support officers and managers. This course teaches the principles of good governance to individuals for the benefit and application of participating organisations.

THE GOVERNANCE CERTIFICATE

This course had been designed to provide certification for those people working in or supporting the corporate governance function. It is suitable for those without a formal qualification in governance, those wishing to become board members or those with board experience. It will be equally useful to those with professional qualifications but little or no practical experience of corporate governance. For those people who would like a refresher on the key principles and to be updated on the most recent guidelines and legislation, the Certificate Course provides an excellent solution.

This course provides an overview and an understanding of the principles of corporate governance, leadership and boardroom behaviour.

THE ADVANCED CERTIFICATE

Lead The Board follows the Advanced Certificate Course. For those who have experience in governance roles, the Advanced Certificate Course offers an opportunity to develop your reflective practice in governance. Designed to enhance your practical experience, the course offers a refresher of the main principles in governance along with the addition of reflective logs which help you to directly apply theoretical perspectives to your role as a governance practitioner.

Delivered by experts in the field, the Advanced Certificate Course will expose you to high calibre guest speakers and panel style question and answer sessions, allowing you to directly benefit from their industry insight.

The Advanced Course is assessed using a series of reflective logs, coupled with a final reflective assignment ensuring the key principles of translating theory to practice have been understood.

ACCREDITATION AND ASSESSMENT

Both courses are accredited by the Association of Corporate Governance Practitioners and OCN.

For the Certificate Course, participants are tested with a mixed question style examination paper and a case study essay question which forms the second part of the exam. A pass mark of 60% is expected for those wishing to achieve the certificate. Not all participants will want to be tested and the examination is not compulsory. Those who do not wish to be tested will be awarded a certificate of attendance, identifying the areas that they have covered on the course.

CORE COMPETENCES TO BE GAINED

- Understanding the general principles of corporate governance,
- Understand corporate governance codes,
- Defining and applying the tgf Governance Framework,
 - Applying the principles behind strategy, internal control and risk management,
- Knowledge of the role of the directors, secretaries, the chair and governance practitioners,
- Competence to carry out a governance review and self-assessment,
- Reflective application of theory to practice.

KEY OBJECTIVES

The principle aim of the Governance Certificate Courses is to provide a coherent and vocationally relevant curriculum, designed to equip the student for a role as a 'Governance Practitioner'. This may include board membership on a charity, voluntary, public or private sector board; committee work, servicing of a board or progression to more senior or paid board appointments. This will be achieved through developing the individual student's:

- Interpersonal and communication skills commensurate with the demands of highly complex challenges faced by boards;
- Understanding, judgement, intellectual and creative powers to take a leadership role on a board;
- Abilities to critically analyse and evaluate indicators of poor and good governance and how to identify such in the boardroom;
- Competence to critically reflect upon individual contribution and board effectiveness;
- Abilities to identify and solve problems in adherence to codes of governance and role of a board member;
- Ability to synthesise areas of study and to perceive their application in a broader perspective.
- Advanced Course participants have the opportunity to reflect on their role, build on their already acquired foundational knowledge and progress the level of their board role.

"The EBM course prepared me for my role as a director of football."
