Standard Daily Operations

Monday, September 09, 2019

FedEx is now conducting standard daily operations in the eastern coastal areas of the U.S. recently affected by Hurricane Dorian. Previous hazardous conditions across the area have subsided and FedEx is now back to standard daily operations.

Note that some isolated areas remain inaccessible and there may be on-going service delays due to local conditions.

As always, FedEx appreciates your business and your patience during weather-related disruptions. We encourage you to continue to check fedex.com for the latest news.
